CIAIAC OFFICIAL NOTE
CERTIFICATE OF NO ACCIDENTS FOR PILOTS

Law under ICAO Annex 13, Regulation (EU) n ° 996/2010 and Law 21/2003, protects the information gathered by the Safety Investigation Authorities. Therefore, as per this legislation, this information must be exclusively used by the Safety Investigation Authorities for the only purpose to prevent future accidents and improve safety, being limited the release of that information to third parties for purposes other than using it during the technical investigation.

For this reason, the final reports of the Safety Investigation Authorities do not include any personal details. The mere fact of checking the information gathered by the Safety Investigation Authority to verify if a pilot is included therein to satisfy this kind of enquiries would imply an inappropriate use.

Considering all of the above, applicable law compels CIAIAC to properly use the gathered information during the investigation process, to not release it and to keep its protection status, as this kind of enquiries are not included in any of the provisions by the above applicable law allows the communication to third parties.
